THE OBSTRUCTIONS IN THE SAVANNAH AND CHARLESTON RIVERS .- The New York Tribune has received the following particulars in regard to the obstructions in the Savnnnah and Charleston rivers, from a captured prisoner who has recently taken the oath of allegiance. Our Informant, at the time of the breaking out of the war, lived In Columbia, S. C., and under the excitement and pressure of the momest joined the rebel forces at Fort Moultaic, where he remained for two months went to Merris Island. There he etioned until Sumpter was captured, and June, 1861, lest with the 1st regiment South Carolina infantry, Col. Maxy Gregg, (since killed), for Virginia. Subsequently, he joined the "Wise Legion," stationed in Western who will have the plunder. Seeing this, Virginia and upon heing discharged from is it a wonder to say experience is no that command joined the 1st regiment South Carolina artillery, Col. Calhonn, stationed at Fort Sumpter, Charleston, where he was in April last, when thet fortification was bombarded by Farragnt. At the time of the bompardment Col. Rhett was in command. Col. Calhonn baying been killed in n duel by Col. Rhett. Doring the hombardment there were five compenies in the fort, averaging about seventy men each. Tno number of gnns in the fort, including mortars, was 103. During the bomhardment upward of 106 men were killed and wonnded. Fifteen men were killed at the explosion of the magazine on the sonthwest corner of the fort. facing the city of Charleston. The fort at the present time is a perfect mass of rains, only five guns remaining mounted and in condition to be worked. At the time our informant left Charleston a garrison of two companies was which effectually killed it. Previous to explaining this we must go hack to what may be called first principles, or rather the first objects of the convention.

These were, I believe, the creation of a new Yay of Monnt Pleasant and Sullivan's Island.

Fort Jehnston, on James Island, still in rebel hands, contains 12 large guns, 10-inch columbiads, while in the ontworks the sum of civil law throughout the loyal States and tell me if they are not the convention. These were, I believe, the creation of a new State out of East Tennessee, and, if this were not deemed advisable, then an early restoration of civil law throughout the loyal States, and tell me if they are not the convention to be held in the city of Louring was organized by calling Dr. John M. Briggs to the chair and appointing W. O. John M. Briggs to the chair and appointing the convention. The prototypes of the purpose of appointing the prototypes of the purpose of appointing of about 5 guns each; at Fort Monltrie, on the same island, there are 32 guns id two mortars; Battery Bee, on the east of rie, monnts five gurs. There are two etteries mounting from four to five gans each. From the rear of Fort Monltrie over to Monnt Pleasant there is n bridge constructed for the purpose of transporting troops, ammunition, and subsistence to the batteries on Sulliven's Island. Beside these fortificaions there are Fort Ripley, Castle Pinckney, d a very strong hattery on the city wharf. ort Ripley is about a mile and a half from Fort Sumpter, and half a mile from Fort mostly of small caliber. On the west end of river, and mounts fourteen heavy guns. Castle Pinckney is between one-half and threequarters of a mile from the city, and mounts five of six gunz, mostly 32-pound rifles. The battery on the wharf is strongly protected by murlins, and monnts eight large guns. In retorpedoes laid on a direct line in the Charleston river, from Fort Johnston to Monnt Pieasant, the entire width of the harbor. They consist of common beer barrels, tarred in and ontside, and fastened together by a cable at the bottom. Some of them contain between 600 and 700 pounds of powder. The lanthese villauons instruments are screwed into the end of each barrel, and so arranged near the eniface that they will explode the torpedo with 15 pounds of pressure from anything coming in contact with them. At the front of Fort Ripley there are spiles driven across the river to prevent vessels from passing that point. From Sumpter to Comming's Point and Sullivau's Island there are torpesimilar to the above laid across the river.

ese there are logs chained together wiver, mostly from Fort Johnston to Snllivan's Island. Nearly all thu steeples in the city had been taken down four weeks ago, when our informant left Charleston, to preat our forces from obtaining any particular nge. A great portion of the city, from the whaif to Meeting street, has been battered down by the fleet. There are now no residents in that locality.

In regard to the obstructions in Savannah river, from Thunderholt Battery to Warsaw Sound, the rebels have laid down live oak logs and timeer, from Skiddeway river to the marsh opposite. At a place called "the Sisters," three little islands (helow Turner's Rocks) in the middle of the river, the rebels have sunk thirty-two torpedoes, extending from Wilmington Island to the "Sisters," and thence to Saiddeway Battery. They are little larger than lager beer barrels, and charged with powder and fulminate, and will explodo on slight pressure. Beside these, there are others in the Savannah river, in regard to which our informant is not thoroughly posted. Our informant says, that within the last nine months all of the British subjects nnable to take ont a writ of habeas corpus have been conscripted. All other foreigners have been ou them by the gentlemen from the minority forced into the ranks at the point of the bayonet. The general desire among the middle and laboring classes who have been impressed is for peace, as many of their families are on animosity, the resolutions were about being the verge of starvation, and they cannot get

THE KNOXVILLEG-REENVILLE CONVENTION. KNOXVILLE, April 23, 1864. If a man be fortunate enough to marry a centiful and accomplished woman, possess-ng all those qualities of head and heart that

Thus, too, should it he with thet class of men, who, wedding themselves to grand and ennobling principles, flegrantly violate their earctity and holiness by overlaying and underlaying them with fonl excressences of personel animosities and prejudices. The lete Knoxville Greenville Convention has prosented such a sorry spectacle. Little more than a week has passed since its birth, and seen after, the Lord be praised, its death was recorded. I telegraphed the Journal the The storm has subsided-fierce passions are hushed to sleep, the blood, fired with anger is cool, the mind, frenzied with wrong and oppression, is calm and collected, the fever of the public pulse has subsided to flow in a more philosophic current, and the people the omnipotent people, are better prepared thear unpalatable truths, than honey coate sephisms to please partisan ends, and beneath which the rankest personalities appear in their most disgusting features. EXPERIENCE NO TRACHER. Human folly is predominant everywhere.

It is legioly written on every heart, and espe-cially was it so on the heart of the Kuoxvillereenville Convention—if, indeed, that est lomeration of intellectual nonsense an litical hypectisy could be personified as sving a heart. But a chapter on experience, is a historical fact that Adam was tempted Eve, and, as a consequence of that tempta-n, humanity lost heaven. Yet Antony, no profiting by Adam's experience, lost his king-dom, Cleopatra playing Eve. The world is full of Antonys, and by some fateiity of na-ture there is a full unota of Eves. There are thousands upon whom experience is lavished as is fruitful rains on barren rocks. The delegates to the Knoxville-Greenville Convention were of this class. Humanity, in its manifold and various divisions of sentiment and thought, has its oracles to divulge and explain its numerous wants and desires: it is of those orncles I write. For four long and weary days I waited patiently and eagerly to hear thing to the point-something having sou spirit of the peoplo of East Tennessee, but I heard it not. Bar-room politicians aped the mien of statesmen. Personal animosities suerseded a wise and conciliating course. VLile the treasure is sinking men fight to see cher? The stath the fleavens is not clear-cr. It a man is so blind then that he cannot see the light, and from prejudice and passion gropes in the dark, it is sufficient evidence that as a guide he would be a failure. As a matter of honesty, coming out of a great mass of hypocrisy, I must do the convention justice of hyrocrisy, I must do the convention justice to say that it recognized the fact that it was blind—blind to the welfare and interests of the prople. To put itself out of misery it took my life that the Republic might live?" We are

If the men participating and a government to wreck it on the rocks n the dehate had ever drunk from the political philosophy of Jefferson or Hamilton, they did not show it. They were evidently as smidst the wild waves of human folly and hnnerant of the wealth contained therein as | man passion. ncy were uncourteons and ungentlemanly exhibiting that ignorance. But that they ad studied a pro-slavery Ross and an antispirit of the devil was rife everywhere, if discord, contention, and strife, be taken in evidence. This was saddening to the heart of every true patriot. Here were men assembled, every one of whom defied, either in a greater or less degree, the power of Jeff Davis's minions to enslave them. Where the storm raged wildqueiled, but, iron-like, stood against the standing by the Republic, and swearing eter-

PROPOSED QUINQUENNIAL CENSUS. - Senator Harris, of New York, has offered a resulution of the Pops. -- The Roman correspondent of in the Senato of the United States, recom- the London Times describes as follows the nending to the severel State Governments, to | scene at St. Peter's on Easter Sunday: naves census taken in their respective States in the year 1865, npon the plan of the Federal census, coupled with the proposition, that, in order to facilitate the work and give uniformity to it, the Government snpply the States with the necessary schedules and instructions. and further that the Government be supplied with copies of the original returns. Such a meesure, if csrried through Congress and adopted by the States, will, the National Intelligeneer thinks, he one of a beneficent end highly important nature, as it will furnish a statistical record of deep interest to the world. But a census taken at the present time is still more important, in view of the grent public debt, to impart confidence, at home and abroad, in the abundant resources of the country, and establish by facts its ability to meet the immense liabilities eo anddenly and unexpectedly thrown npon it. And the moral effects of the war upon nur people, and its results on the population of the country which the census would disclose, are hardly secondary to the other more primary considerations. So important, indeed, does the measure seem to our contemporary that it feels confident if the scheme should appear too difficult of accomdishment by the States, the country would beerfully encounter the expense of an inter-

nediate national census for the single value o ils statistics in imspiring confidence in the substantial wealth of the ration. TER GURRILLAS BROUGHT TO GRIEF .- Depatches were yesterday received, says the St. ouis Union, from Colonel Porter, commanding the post at Cape Girerdcau, stating that a portion of the troops stationed at that point had mnde an incursion into the interlor in pursuit of certain guerilia bands which have ccently given great trouble to the residents f that locality, by their mnrders and robberies. A number of them were overtaken at a small town called Charleston, where eight were captured and shot. The total number killed is placed at from eighteen to twenty. No prisoners were brought in. The Union men ol that locality are adopting the sanitary regulations of one of the army corps further South. Where they find horse-thieves, guerillas, and cut-throats, they make a speedy disposition of them, and thus save Father Abraham the trouble of signing their parlon.

EASTER SENTAY AT ROME-The Appearance

The Mass, it was reported, would begin at 9 emily about, and then a cardinal flared across the nave in his scarlet robes, and then another and another, each followed by his chaplains and train-bearers, and all tending toward the Charel of the Holy Sucrament. And last the procession was formed, and, emerging slowly from the chapel, turned off to the right, and proceeded up the nave to the

I was close to him as he passed, for I had secured an interval hetween two soldiers, and very much altered for the worse was his appearance since the last great func-tion on Christmas day. His round and florid features were much reduced and much pale; they had n worn expression, one almost of pair, and I could scarcely help saying: "It is too had, for political reesons, to make an exhibition of the poor Pope in such a state." The whole pageant, indeed, was the mock-ery of grandenr and the very antithesis of Christianity—feebleness in a chair of state— Christ in the midst of his armed legional So, however, it was that Pius IX., probably for the last time at such a season as the present was carried to the altar to assist at the most solemn services of the Roman Catholic Church—a suffering, feeblo old man, sur-rounded by all the pomp and vanity of the world; the representative of Christ npon earth, inelicating humility, simplicity, and love in the midst of muskets bristling with sword bayonets. As the Pope approached the altar the "silver trumpets," as they are called,

The procession then moved, and the Pope, horne in his chair, was placed before the tomb of St. Peter, having the celebrated brouze statue of the saint on his left, and it was evident that the event of so much interest to the lower Catholic world was about est to the Roman Catholic world was about to take place. On other occasious, es two or three years since, when the weather was stormy, the benediction has been given inside St. Peter's, but had it been fine, I do not think that the Pope could heve given it from culside; and the rain, therefore, was a prov-

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 17, 1864. The Massalman month of fasting, called Remezan, has expired, and the three feslyal days which succeed it, known as the e, though the offices of the Porte sre open, nothing is transacted. In the first, the burthers of the fast (which, however, not one in a thousand keeps) is the excess for idleness. And in the latter, the juy occasioned by the cessatlen of the menth of humbliation, fasting, nd prayer, is mathrally received as a relief from all graver occupations. Obristian "civ-ilization is making great changes in the Mos-lems, and they are fast becoming, in more re-epocts than one, like the "imbelievers." It has so kappened that the Catholic and Greek cernival, and the Islam Ramazan came, this year, together, which enabled the "faithful" to solece themselves at night, in the halls, on-eras, and theatres of the Christians, for any abstinence which they experienced duting day. It is only to be regretted that the infla-erces of the "civilization," so much lauded by philanthropists, is not an elevating one, but, on the coutrary, it tends sadly to degrade the graver Mohammedan from a superior and

This distegard of their own religious laws is not confined to the men. The fair sex also claim the privilege of introducing innovations of their own. At no time of the year are the Turkish ladies seen more in the public streets, concealed heneath the thinnest of veils. The bezaars are, during the day, filled with them, on the excuse of shopping for the coming Bayram. Then they are ready for any little innocent intrigues which may turn up, just to aid them in whiling away the horid fast. friendly though less responsible is making not cease with their residence under its roof, the circuit of the press as we write. The Mr. Lincoln, then, prepared the proclamation of emancipation as early as June in 1862, and withheld it from publication not for the resson that the national cause in his estimation was so prosperous as not to render the proclamation indispenseble, but rather for the reason that the national cause was so unprosperons as not to be able to bear the shock. He waited not for new reverses, that might seem to render the proclamation indispenseble, but for a substantial victory, that could only render the proclamation less indispensable even in his own estimation.

While Mr. Lincoln was waiting for a snbstantial victory with this view, and when the proclamation of cmancipation had been lying complete in his portfolio for at least three months, the Christian delegation referred to by Mr. Lovejoy in the extract quoted above visited Mr. Lincoln at Washington, and hed with him an interview which the report of the delegation has made notorious. In the course of that interview, Mr. Lincoln, as the delega tion reports, said:

What good would a proclamation of cman cipation from me do, especially as we are now situated? I do not want to issue a document rily be inoperative like the Pope's hall against met. Would my word free the slaves, in the rebel Statos? Is there a single court, or magistrate, or individual that would be inenced by it there? And what reason is the claves than the late law of Congress, which I approved, and which offers protection and freedom to the slaves of rebel masters who como within our lines? Yet I can-not learn that that law has caused a single hat shall we do with them? How can we ed and care for such a multitude? General tler wrote me, a few days since, that he have rushed to him than to all the white coors under his command. I will mention another thing, though it meet only your scorn and contempt. There are 50,000 bayonets in the Union army from the Border Stave States. It would be a seri-tion such as you desire, they should go over to the rebels. I do not think they all would —not so many indeed as a year ago, or as six months ago—not so many to-day as yester-day. Every day increases their Union feeling. They are also getting their pride enlisted, and want to beat the rebels. At this very time, be it remembered, Mr. Lincoln not only had resolved definitively to issue the proclamation, but had actually pre-

It is thus established incontrovertibly that Mr. Lincoln did not deem the proclamation of emancipation indispensable when he prepared it with the view of immediate publication, and that he deemed the proclamation still Icse indispensable when he actually published it. Nay, it is established incontrovertibly that when he published the proclamation he deemed it not merely not indispensable but positively injurious. His own admissions establish this conclusion.

Mr. Lincoln, therefore, did not issue the proclamation of emancipation under even the despotic principle of anthority which he pleads in defence of the act. He is condemned as a usurper by his own lawless etandard of anthority. Yet he avers that to this day he WORKMER ROBBED .- A small squad of gucrillas under the command of a thicking cutthroat named Harper, made a descent on a party of repairers, at work on the Nashvills railroad between Franklin and Mitchellville, on Tnesday night. The workmen, although equal in numbers to the guerillas, were taken by surprise, and surrendered themselves withut offering any resistance. As soon as the cpairers surrendered, Harper ordered his men to cearch the prisoners, and pluuder their honees. Over $1,200 were obtained by this thiering operation. The loss falls heavily on the laborers, as the money taken was the savings of about seven years' earning. One man alone lost $557. Harper and his squad arc roaming through the country and depredating on the citizens with impenity. If anybody should be successful in effecting his capture. they should present him with a halter. The Quaker City Telegram says that a shocking homicide was committed near Liberty, Uniou county, on Monday of last week. Charlee Creek and Alexander Paddock, both wealthy farmers, residing on adjoining lands ! four miles south of Liberty, had a trifling! unsettled account between them, and at noou on Monday week Mr. Creek, who had a number of men in his employ cutting wood, said to them that he would go past the field in which hie neighbor, Mr. Paddock, was at work, and make a cettle and the field of the control of the contr which his neighbor, Mr. Paddock, was at work, and make a settlement of the account, and etarted away, carrying his axe with him. Arriving in Mr. Paddock's field, a dispute aroso between them, and, as Mr. Creek relates it, Paddock ordered him to leave the premises, which he was in the act of doing, when Paddock followed him in a threateuing, meuacing manner, which enraged Creck, ho turned upon him and striking him with the axe upon the neck severed the wind-pipe and principal arteries, from the effect of which death ensued almost instantly. Creek immediately informed the ueighbors of what had occurred, and gave himself up to the officers of the law.

The Noble County Journal mentions a remarkable incident that occurred in that place recently. Seven brothers named Taber, who had not met before in twenty-one years, all met in that place last Monday week, to see the youngest brother, Lewis, a re-enlisted veteran of the 30th regiment. They have been scattered all over the West, from Obio to Iowa. The youngest is 25, the eldest 45 years old, and they average eix feet high. The Bedford Press says that a woman named Judah Hammonds, living in Sperryville, Lawrence county, whose husband is in the army, recently killed ber infant child, and confessed it when accused. She said she hed been urged to do it by a man named Henry Skeen, who was its father.

The Hendricks County Ledger says that Mr. Wilson M. Daynell, living two miles east of Danville, recently undertook to vaccinate himself by saturating a thread with vaccine

A Bad Case of Running of the Ear, Deafness and Noise in the Head Cure in the one of the Superintendent or Chief Buring the Spring of 183, while Dr. Jones as and Noise in the Head Cure in the Celerity is considered a highting in war. So is promptness. We believe there is only one General in the Southern army who always gete up Early, albeit there was one, that resigned, who was habitnally Pryor in rising. Though the rebel officers are rather noted for rapid movements, there are two decided Polks among them, and one who is continually Cumming, yet does not come along.

But we have a Socam onrelves, and though we may have a General Hunt after the rebels, some of our commanders, including the old Hunter himself, occasionally fail to bag the raccals, seeing which General Ketchum ought to reaign, unless he can prove that he knows Howse. By hanging on the enemy's rear, it ascems to us that Gen. Hindman, at least, ought to be caught.
